THE CAMPAIGN IN OHIO.

General Frank P. Blair, Jr., democratic candidate r the Vice Presidency, addressed an immense and enthusiastic assemblage in Cincinnati on the 5th instant. The following are extracts from some of the topics he touched upon:-

topics he touched upon:—

RECONSTBUCTION ACTS STILL "UNCONSTITUTIONAL, NULL AND VOID."

My friends, the principles on which this reconstruction policy stands have been declared to be unconstitutional by the supreme law of this land. In several cases the principles on which this measure rests have been declared to be unconstitutional by the body creeted under the constitution to decide upon the validity and constitutionality of all acts of Congress. And yet these men say that thuse who are for executing the decision of the Supreme Court are revolutionists; that those who are for maintaining the President against this fragment of a Congress who are attempting to trample the constitution under foot; those who are for executing the will of the people already expressed condemning these always condemning these acts, and which will be again renewed in November next, condemning them for a second and third time, they who go for the execution of the will of the people for the popular government, a government which belongs to the people—they are denounced as revolutionists. Now, my fellow citizens, these laws I have said are unconstitutional, null and void, and they have been so proclaimed by the Supreme Court. They commenced by establishing a military despotism and subverting civil government in ten States of they have been so proclaimed by the Supreme Court. They commenced by establishing a military despotism and subverting civil government in ten States of this Union. Does not every man of intelligence within the sound of my voice know, and does not every man of intelligence within the broad bounds of this country know, that the constitution provides that the military authority shall always be subordinate to the civil authority in this country? And yet, in spite of that unmistakable provision of the constitution, these men have subverted all civil government in the ten Southern States and established a military despotism.

strution, these men have subverted all civil government in the ten Southern States and established a military despotism.

And my friends and fellow citizens, if they establish it in the ten Southern States, why not in ten more States? Why not in all of the other States? I teil you, my fellow citizens, they have the will to do it.

The Frace of The BAYONET.

I have not completed my indictment against these men yet. Not only have they done this, but with an andacity and mendacity that ought to astonish even these men who have practised and lived in that kind of deed and doing for many years, they now proclaim that this armed candidate of theirs, with his bayonets at the throats of the people of the South, pressing them to the earth, that he is the candidate who will restore you peace. (Greans.) Yes, my fellow citizens, peace! Peace at the point of the bayonet. Peace! Peace, my fellow citizens, at the expense of the fundamental rights of a republican government. Peace, my fellow citizens, at the expense of the fundamental principles of our government, the fundamental principles of our government, the fundamental principles of our government, the fundamental principles of Bonaparte has given to the French people; the peace, my fellow citizens, that the Can of Russia proclaimed as reigning in Warsaw, when, with his sword he struck down freedom and its defenders. Why is it that these invasions are made against the econstitution? For what purposes are they made? Why is it that they have overthrown and destroyed that instrument which has protected our people and given us the unparalleled prosperity which we have the theorem of the property of the protection of the protection of the protection of the same see, that has half an eye to see, that they do that on the protection of the world that has half an eye to see, that they do that these negroes are incapable; that they have shown themselves in power? Do they not in the wind that these negroes are incapable; that the y have shown themselves to be so; that in the wind historic period of the world this negro race have a never established or maintained a government for themselves? Did they not, for years and years, here in your midst, proclaim that the negro had been, inbritted by shavery? Was not this their argument when they were after you to give them power to cheat the extension of slavery into your Territories, that the negro was kept in Ignorrance hon purt ese? Did they not say that they had so long thyed? And yet the instant that they had so long thyed? And yet the instant that they had so long thyed? And yet the instant that they had so long thyed? And in 1833, when the same attempt was made in South Carolina during the days of nullification, who was it that put his foot upon nullification and trampled it to death and saved the Union? It was old Andrew Jackson and the democratic party. (Great applause.) And, my fellow citizens, when this last attempt was made, when this rebellion broke out and the government stood terrified, appalled, afraid to lift its finger, with cannon pointed upon Fort Sunter, who was it that rushed into the army and saved the Union? It was the democratic party. (Great applause.) Yes, my fellow citizens, the army was filled with democrate, and while they were in the front fighting, then, my fellow citizens, the radicals at home could carry the State of Ohlo by a hundred thousand majority or so. (Laughter and applause.) But when the Boys in Blue canne back they didn't have such big majorities. It strikes me at the last election that they hand't such a majority in this State—applause—and from the dispiav of the Boys in Blue who are marching under the democratic banners through this State now it seems to me that that will be reversed in the coming election. (Applause.)

that will be reversed in the coming election. (Applause.)

WHAT THE ROW BETWEEN SEYMOUR AND STANTON WAS ABOUT.

So true it is, my fellow clitzens, that the democratic party filled the army and saved the Union in this last struggle it is an absolute fact that the quarrel which broke out between Mr. Seymovr, the democratic candidate for President, and Mr. Stanton arose from this fact, that he so manipulated his Conscription Burean as to require the districts of New York to supply to the army two men to one that was supplied by the radical State of Massachusetts. And even with but a half quota that most radical of radical States was not even able to fill that half quota, but went hunting and searching all over the country to buy up negroes and put them in the army as substitutes. (Applause.)

And, my feilow clitzens, to come down to the present day, who is it that is trying to restore the Union and bring back the States that have been expt out? Who is it that is keeping these States out? Jeff Davis kept them out four years, and the radical party has kept them out four years, and the radical party has kept them out four, ("That's so.") The democrate put down Jeff Pavis' rebellion, and I believe they intend to put down the rebellion of these radicals. (Cries of "Good" and cheers.)

A DICTATORSHIP THE RADICAL FINALITY.

There is one point to which I wish to call your attention. In giving suffrage to these black men, known to them and to every man not to be qualified, not to have the intelligence necessary to exercise that right, the object of many of their representatives in conferring that right upon the blacks is not only to maintain their power by means of their support, but by the degradation of the suffrage to destroy suffrage. This is what they mean. What men in this country are to share in the government of thus country with this degraded race? Who cares to have them enjoy the same political privileges with the white men? Not the radical people of Ohio even, for the suffrage and our free government, and become

THE CAMPAIGN IN INDIANA.

Hon. Schuyler Colfax, republican candidate for the Vice Presidency, addressed a large audience in Indianapolis on the 5th inst. The following are ex-

Indianapolis on the 5th inst. The following are extracts from portions of his speech:—

Have you noticed the malignity of these unrepentant rebels as they mouth their treason over the graves of the brave soldlers who died that the nation might live? Have you not learned what they intend to do with the carpet-baggers and scalawags, as they term them? The scalawag is an American citizen of the South, whose devotion to the Union makes him an enemy of the rebellion, who refused to give up that birthright of liberty which had been purchased by the blood of the Revolution. The carpet-bagger is the Northern Union man who has settled in the South. If a brave soldier who went down there and fought to suppress the rebellion saw fit to buy a farm with his money, as he had a right to do, and settle upon it, he is called a carpet-bagger.

A citizen of the North is a citizen of the nation. He was willing to give his heart's blood for the preservation of the nation, and he has a right to live anywhere within the boundaries of the republic. These traitors point the finger of scorn at him, reville him and even murder him.

You have seen the cuts with which they advise their maligness propers to drive every Union man out of the Southern States, and to make that fate of carpet-baggers and scalawags after the star of March.

They declare their purpose to drive every Union man out of the Southern States, and to make that region too hot to hold him. Is not this shameless conduct of those who were stricken down and vanquished, and pardoned when they had incurred the penalty of treason—whose hands are still red with the blood of siain patriots?

I tell you these atrocties must be and will be stopped under the leadership of Ulysses S. Grant. He will make this country so free that every law-abiding and peaceful citzen can live where he pleases—South or North—with no traitor to molest him or make him afraid.

Let me speak of one thing more that renders the record of this republican party glorious. It is the

him or make him afraid.

Let me speak of one thing more that renders the record of this republican party glorious. It is the only party that has prevented the whole power in the rebellious States from going back into the hands of these men. If there had been no republican party this power—executive, legislative and judicial—would have been back in the hands of the rebels and the Southern heart would have been fired in rebellion again.

The republican party has stood in the gap, and we will stand in the gap to the end. (Applause.) We intend that loyalty shall triumph. We intend that there shall be peace to every man, no matter who he may be, so that he is an American citizen and oboys the laws.

But we are met with the response that we are for may be, so that he is an American citizen and obeys the laws.

But we are met with the response that we are for negro equality. We have heard that cry a long time. There is one who is not afraid of negro equality. He who holds the destinies of nations in the hollow of this hand. He who gave us all we possess and all that can make us happy; who gave us, as a nation, all that makes us great has appealed well to the dwellers upon the earth, irrespective of race or color, to address him by the endearing title of Our Father; and if the, so high and lifted up above us, puts us all on an equality before the divine law, do we err when we guarantee to all men the inationable rights secured to them by the Declaration of Independence?

rights secured to them by the Deciaration of Inde-pendence?

In that land where the streets are gold and the gates are pearl and the walls are jasper and sapphire there will be no platform of race or color, but we shall be judged by the heart and by its acts and there will be no platform of race or color, but we shall be judged by the heart and by its acts and deeds.

One thing more and I conclude. This noble party of which I have spoken to you is the only one that stands upon the rights of man; that demands protection for every citizen, rich or poor, learned or unlearned, white or black, on our own shores and wherever they may go throughout the world—protection in the South, protection in the North, protection abroad—is its motto.

Read your statute book and you will find that the republican party is the first one in our history that has proclaimed by legislation to the world that every foreign born citizen naturalized in our country shall, wherever he goes, carry with him the impregnable shield and bulwark of American citizenship as if he were American born. (Great applause.) Under the administration of General Grant we will have American citizenship in its palmiest days. When Faul stood in the raids of his enemies and they were about to scourge him he said to them in the language of confidence, "Touch me not, for I am a Roman citizen," and the officer shrank back, for he realized that if he laid the weight of a finger upon him Rome would punish him for the offence. They were a thousand to one against Paul, but the unseen power of a thousand Roman legions was with him and was with him republican party in power.

SPEECH OF GENERAL SAMUEL M'GOWAN, OF SOUTH SPEECH OF GENERAL SANCEL M'GOWAN, OF SOUTH CAROLINA.

Investigating the meaning of the word (loyalty) as a lawyer, moralist and statesman, he showed that the interpretation that had been placed upon it by Stevens, Sunner, Wade and others was false in fact, base in practice and not sustained by law. He asserted that a large proportion of those blinded or wicked men who, of Southern birth, yet supported the designs of the radicals, were during the late war filling positions of safety or profit, and that no true soldier, a lover of the South, could so far forget his country or his honor as to Crook the supple hinges of the knee That thrift might follow fawning.

That thritt might follow fawning.

He spoke of the well known fact that whenever any man among us for base or sordid motives gives his support to the radicals a perfect hurricane of sound goes up that he has become at last loyal to the government and one to be trusted and honored. He closed his speech with a grand appeal to bear onward the banner of the constitution and plant it upon the dome of the National Capitol, that we may evermore be restored to those blessings of peace and liberty without which no people can be prosperous.

CURIOUS CARD FROM SAM WARD.

Washington, Oct. 4, 1868.

To the Editor of the Boston Post:—
In justice to Mr. Atkinson and myself I beg to say that my despatch—which I trust may be the political harl-kari of Dr. Butler—was not communicated by me. The operators of the Franklin Telegraph swear it was not imparted by them. It was, therefore, "ButlerIzed"—a vague yet comprehensive word, which I commend to Mr. Bartlett for his next edition of Americanisms. But it being proven that as "all roads lead to Rome" so all wires lead to Gloucester, let us hope that a mailed letter may occasionally escape his prying eyes, until the restless Doctor, though most too old a dog to learn new tricks, shall realize the truth of the adage that "listeners rarely hear any good of themselves," and this Fagan of New Orleans, who recently, under the pretext of a government commission to Prince Edward Island, spent some thousands of the people's money to persuade the bardy fishermen of Gloucester that he was to establish an equality between filmself doctarias to establish an equality between filmself doctarias to confishermen that if their ballots return the said Fagan to Congress he will make many an "artful Dodger" out of the "Oliver Twists" around him, and let it be added for the honor of the country and humanity that I, federalist as I am, and copperhead as I am not ashamed to be called, advise them to cast their suffrages for the lilustrious patriot and seaman whose record of two years before the mast has not ceased, and will never cease to pour oil upon the troubled waters of the marmer's life; and further, that one such hump of rennet as Butler will sour more congressioual milk than fifty Richard H. Danas can set to cream.

POLITICAL NOTES.

While the radicals are rejoicing over a doubtful victory at the town elections in Connecticut they seem to have overlooked the fact that little Deli ware spoke loudly the other way only the day after. In the city of Wilmington the radical majority was only twenty-two; in September 11 was 314, showing in less than a month a democratic gain of 292 votes.

The Charleston News has a habit of talking truths to its own citizens that merits encouragement. In Its issue of the 5th inst, the News says:-

Its issue of the 5th inst, the News says:—

It is useless to shut our eyes to sad but obvious facts. This seeming spread of the belief that the election of Mr. Seymour would be the signal for maneial convulsion, and, perhaps, a "new rebelion," is at the root of the evident exhilaration of the republican press and politicians during the last few weeks and of the corresponding depression in the democratic ranks. The rash utterances of a few prominent Southern men have thus gone far towards effacing the impression produced by the patient fortitude and brave endurance of $,000,000 of people. As it is the democracy go into the preliminary struggle of the October elections shorn of much of the strength with which they entered the Presidential canvass. The indications now are that the "doubting" vote on which we had so largely counted will be divided, if not against us.

A.* DR. SCHENCK'S SEAWEED TONIC. ? A.

A. This medicine, invented and prepared by Dr. J. H.
Schenck, of Philadelphia, is proved to be the best remedy for, dyspepsia and all disorders of the digestive organs that has ever been offered to the public. The great auccess and popularity of Dr. Schenck's Pulmonic Syrup are samileden to recommend this Tonic to public favor and confidence. It was originally designed to be used in connection with the Pulmonic Syrup in the treatment of consumption; but experience proves that it is adapted to all cases of indigestion and debility. The Seawed Tonic possesses all the strengthoulne properties of foulde of fron, todine, todide of potassium; it is also similar in nature to the gastric juice, the fluid which has utre provides to carry on the process of digestion, and when
